From Where The West Begins.

LIFE was no bed of roses for a young man treated at the city hospital recently. Enroute to San Antonio he fell from a truck and landed in the midst of a thick growth of prickly-pear. Hospital attendants, armed with tweezers, occupied several hours picking thorns from various parts of the victim's anatomy.

When asked by a nosy reporter what he thought of cactus, the patient replied between grunts: "It certainly gives a fellow a stuck up feeling. I feel like a porcupine."

ACCORDING to record the ship compass was discovered November 1st, 1302. The crude 13th century compasses were used for sailing the Mediterranean. Probably the earliest form of compass is described by an Arabian writer in 1282, as a magnetized needle floated on water by means of a splinter of wood.

Since 1911 a gyroscope, which does not depend in any way upon the earth's magnetism has come into general use for ships.

A GOVERNMENT operated beef canning plant is to be established in San Antonio. It will be 1 of 15 such plants located at strategic points throughout Texas. More than 500 beef animals will be purchased here monthly. The canned beef will be distributed to the needy of this section by the unemployment relief organization.

NOW that the 18th Amendment and prohibition are about to join the ranks of "big shots" bootleggers ready to break down and spill the heretofore guarded secrets of their racket for publication.

This writer recently contracted a prominent bootlegger, who under influence of his own potent high balls intimated that he might furnish colorful data for a "Confessions of a Bootlegger" serial. We know his anecdotes would be revealing to many readers. The pay offer to prohibition men and other officials: High school girls and society women mingling with underworld characters in his house. Seductions—fights—pay offs—doped drinks—and other shameful crimes harbored under the banner of prohibition's noble experiment that failed to reach police records.

ODDITY—A sailor on the streets of San Antonio, this being a 100 per cent soldier town. Sometime ago we were assigned the duty of locating a man. The only description was that he wore a sailor's uniform. Up and down the main streets our search extended, until finally a job was spotted. The task was completed. "It was very simple my dear Watson—find the sailor uniform in San Antonio, and there's your man."

AIMEE Semple McPherson evangelist of Angelus Temple fame was a visitor in San Antonio on Monday. During her stay here she gave two lectures at the Municipal auditorium. Admission was charged, and an overflowing audience greeted the famous evangelist at performances. Aimee also broadcast over a local radio station.

The devil tucked his pitch fork under arm and took the day off when he learned that sister Aimee was due in town.

THERE will have to be some change in that hackneyed expression about what the governor of South Carolina said to the governor of North Carolina now that the Carolinas have voted anti-repeal.

THE cow pony has a rival in the automobile in more ways than one. Visiting a ranch over the week-end our host initiated us to the thrill of herding cattle with a "gasoline steed." Observing several head of cattle in a field, the rancher jumped into his car, full speed ahead, chugged in pursuit of the "strays." Across ditches and over plowed fields we skidded. Along those "doggies git along, git along." They did. Nearly tore down a barbed wire fence so "gitting."

Thanksgiving to Be Observed at Uncle Charlie's Nite Club

This Saturday night, November 25, will be Thanksgiving Night at Uncle Charlie's Nite Club, and for the occasion a special program, including a floor show, has been arranged for the occasion.

Uncle Charlie has that happy faculty of celebrating every worth while event in our American history and very occasion in our local and social life and never fails in his efforts to please to measure up to a high standard which he has set.

On this Saturday night, rather than Thanksgiving Eve, the great day in our National history will be observed in fitting manner. Every guest entering the door will be provided with a ticket (this ticket to be procured only on entering) and this during the evening will decide to whom a prize turkey will be presented. Dear reader, if you attend the Nite Club you might get the turkey for your Thanksgiving dinner.

WEEKS MOTOR SALES TO SELL CHEVROLET CARS AND TRUCKS IN FUTURE

Well-Known and Popular Make of Motor Vehicles To Be Sold Exclusively by Weeks.

In order to meet a popular and persistent demand by the public, the Weeks Motor Sales, located in Main street, opposite the postoffice, will in future sell Chevrolet autos and trucks. In fact this new and progressive firm will sell all of the famous Chevrolet products, securing the local agency by contract signed last Saturday.

Chevrolet cars have proven their dependability and general utility, this responsible for more than in the ordinary sense. Scan the streets, watch the local traffic and elsewhere and count the cars. Your check will show there are more Chevrolets in service than cars of any make. Majority of cars are Chevrolets. Scan Sheriff Kellar's automobile records for tax collection. Cars of more recent times are, predominately Chevrolets.

The Chevrolet has been tested and time tells. Buy a car that has been proven by test to be the best. And— at a price to conform with the average pocketbook. A bigger value for the money.

In making the change from the car he has been handling, which, by the way is a good, popular priced one, Mr. Weeks says he is doing so to meet a popular demand, and since the public must have that which it wishes, it is but natural he met the demand.

New Car for Xmas. Now is the time to buy Chevrolet for Christmas. Purchasing now gives ample time for selection and insures delivery in time. New Chevrolet cars will be on the floor shortly. You are invited to call at the Weeks Motor Sales—opposite postoffice.

Greyhound Bus Travel On Beach Boulevard Is Ordered Discontinued

In accordance with an ordinance recently adopted by the Board of Mayor and City Commissioners and published in these columns for three consecutive weeks, according to law, all bus travel along the "seawall route" or Bay-Waveland beach boulevard has been automatically ordered discontinued. The bus line of the Teche Greyhound lines operate now strictly over the Old Spanish Trail and no longer follow the scenic route along the water front.

This week and to continue in accordance with the law of the City all buses will travel rear of the city. The main stop will be at Hotel Weston where the ticket office and waiting room are located. The Greyhound Lines has a special advertisement on page three of this issue of The Echo.

Woman's Missionary Society's Afternoon Meeting Held Tuesday

The Woman's Missionary Society met on Tuesday, November 21 at the residence of Mrs. Porter Barnes with Mrs. Roy Cagle as co-hostess.

The meeting opened with prayer by Mrs. Shipp and the singing of Hymn No. 183.

The committee for October reported $14.50 net proceeds of the Waffle supper given at the Answer to help cancel the roof debt on the parsonage.

The November committee of which Mrs. Geo. Rea is chairman, reported that they will soon have off the press their unique recipe book compiled from the choice recipes of their friends. This book is to be priced at 50c and will make a very appropriate Christmas gift.

Mrs. Evans announced that Mrs. R. P. Hyams had donated a large part of her pecan crop to the Missionary Society.

These pecans will be sold by the society at the regular market price the proceeds to go to the society.

The December committee is planning a bazaar. The devotional 1 Cor. 12-21-24-26 was led by Miss May Edwards. Mrs. Scharif gave a most interesting sketch of Hull House and the work done there, which was most instructive and enjoyed by all.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

N. C. C. W. MEETING. The monthly meeting of the National Council of Catholic Women will be held at Long Beach, on Monday, November 27th, at 3 P. M. A large attendance is respectfully requested.

COLLEGE BAZAAR IN DECEMBER

Affair to Be Sponsored by Mothers' Club of St. Stanislaus For Debt Fund Benefit.

As a prelude to the Christmas holidays and starting the festive season off with an affair promising much pleasure and interest, members of St. Stanislaus College Mothers' Club announce a mammoth bazaar at College Gym, on Sunday, December 3rd. The proceeds of this benefit will be appropriated to complete payment on outstanding improvements recently made at the college which the mother's club promised to raise the money as their share or contribution to the further success of the college, particularly in this time of stress.

As yet no details have been completed, but suffice it to say, the bazaar will be one of extensive proportion and will be a presentation of a bazaar in the truest sense of the word. There will be many booths.

Bro. Williams, president of the college, expressed to The Echo considerable satisfaction at the outlook for the success of the undertaking. "The ladies in charge," he said, "have initiated a campaign of interest and work that already spells success and it is a foregone conclusion the bazaar is going to be all that may be expected, if not more."

Mrs. Edmund F. Fahey, president, of the club, is enthusiastic and also expresses satisfaction at the manner in which the workers are responding to the call and allowing nothing to remain undone that will contribute to success. "With the aid of ladies from New Orleans, and all members of the club," said Mrs. Fahey, "we feel certain there will be no lack of effort, and with the ever generous public, always ready and willing to assist, it is safe to say the bazaar is going over big."

Colleagues will present a fifteen-minute playlet and beginning at 8:30 o'clock dancing will be the order of the evening.

As arrangements for the bazaar progresses, from time to time, more about the enterprise will appear in these columns.

RACING CRAFT FOR LOUISIANA BUILT IN BAY SAINT LOUIS

Chas. A. Breath, Sr., Completes Trim Craft—Chas. A. Breath, Jr., Makes Delivery Overland.

C. A. Breath, Sr., recently completed the building of a 16-foot racing catboat, Marconi rigged, built from plans published in "The Rudder" publication. The boat was built for Wallace J. McGuire and delivered this week to Mr. McGuire in Shreveport, La., where it will sail on Cross Lake, a body of water measuring 1 1/2 miles by 10.

The trim and attractive looking craft, and admirable piece of workmanship, was taken overland (by trailer) by Charles A. Breath, Jr., accompanied by Ernest Erwin, and Earl Raymond.

Mr. McGuire received the boat with more than ordinary satisfaction and was loud in his praise. This is the second of the kind Mr. Breath has built and delivered in that section.

BURLESQUE BAY CIRCUS IS SUCCESS

Three-Night Unusual Attraction For Convent Gym Benefit Goes Over Big

Unqualified success amply rewarded the efforts of the ladies and gentlemen who worked in a solid phalanx in presenting the Bay St. Louis burlesque circus Saturday, Sunday and Tuesday nights at the convent gym, benefit of the debt fund of that building for St. Joseph's Academy.

Taken all in all the get-up of the Burlesque Circus was both good and clever. Only ingenious minds could have planned and built as well. The public attending was agreeably surprised—they did not expect to see so much and receive such a liberal quota of entertainment in return for their money.

As one entered there was an array of cages of domestic animals, varied and numerous of number. Mr. Charles B. Mollere, merchant of Waveland and a leading citizen of the Bay-Waveland district, loaned his collection of animals and both unusual pelicans, which he has in captivity.

A trio of little "monks," impersonated by Elton Fayard, Caroline Stevenson and Luke Elliott meandering in and around the stage, attracted considerable attention not only by their "monkey garbo" and general make-up, but by their characteristic antics. How well the children acted is best attested to by those who witnessed.

Acting with that true grandiloquent dignity befitting only such masterful circus dignitary as ring master was Martin Blanchard, not only essayed the role but acted it in that professional manner in which it was unanimously accepted. It was Martin's first appearance as ring master and well can he repeat the part.

Not satisfied with one clown there were five in number. No circus is a circus without its imitable clowns and, of course, the Burlesque circus, was no exception. Who could have "clowned" better for the occasion than Ainsworth Kidd, "Deck" Elliott, Jerry Gordon, Raymond Kidd, Dr. Anderson, Garland Anderson and Little Staehle. Surely no one else could have done better. Their antics convulsed their audiences with laughter.

There was no big, bad wolf, but was there an elephant? And how? Possibly this was the outstanding feature of make believes. An elephant, life size, truly proportioned in every detail, had been constructed over at the home of Mr. C. A. Gordon, assisted by his son, Jerry, and others. The elephant walked to the his and flopped his ears, wagged his tail and swayed his trunk to and fro and—eat peanuts and sandwiches as well! The "gorilla" was also an object of attraction.

The rode horse, of Bill Maxwell, who rode him, was also a real treat. The "Streets of Paris," proved an unusually popular attraction and as a sideshow easily proved a "wow!" Dancing "girls" from Paris were there in all their feminine (?) loveliness and beauty. What divine forms! But how muscular! Wearing abbreviated garb and a slight semi-mask of veil material the "girls" danced and pranced wiggled and giggled and instantly won favor.

The best test of "The Streets of Paris" as an attraction was to the effect it proved the biggest individual show as a money-getter. Mr. Henry Capdepon and associates were in charge.

Sideshowes appear to have gained their origin from circus enterprises. Hence, this circus, too, had its sideshows and these were many and various. Mrs. L. S. Elliott was originator and manager of the sideshows. Here are a few of the attractions: "The Burning of Greece," "The Wild Li(y)ns," "The Box 'n' Match," "Paradise" and many others.

Four of Lieutenant Tucker's boys from the C. C. Camp added to the program by presenting a boxing contest, each night. The boys did clever work and were given much applause.

Circus goes do not only invest their nickels and dimes in pink lemonade and cake and peanuts and popcorn as well, but on Saturday and Sunday nights it was proven they are prodigious spenders for candy as well. Mrs. Joseph R. Scharif and assistants in charge of the candy booth report heavy sales each night, this "concession," in fact, was reported one of the best money-makers under the "tent." Incidentally it must be said the candy was home-made, of the best and genuinely delicious kind. It was the generous gift of ladies past masters in the art of candy-making.

While all returns have not as yet been reported it is expected the sum

BILOXI OPPOSES INCREASE

Fight More Public Projects Until Present Taxes Are Lowered Is The Disposition.

A press telegram from that city says that Biloxi business and professional men voiced opposition in a citizens' meeting at Biloxi Monday night against proposed additional expenditures in Harrison county until present taxes are lowered, especially the expenditures contemplated by the city of Gulfport of $375,000 for an inner harbor and other projects. The meeting was conducted under the auspices of the Biloxi Chamber of Commerce and attended by citizens from Biloxi and Gulfport.

The consensus of opinion at the meeting was to the effect that the county should add no further burdens until the present debts are paid. This, it was said, is the only way taxpayers would get genuine relief and property get back to normal value.

OUR SISTER TOWN TO THE SOUTH.

THE Echo from time to time has with much pride called attention to the rapid stride of improvement noted in Waveland. Perhaps no town of similar size in Mississippi has over so short a period and during the present taut times planned and carried out so much that spells for present and future improvement and progress.

And we must not overlook the village of Clermont Harbor, Waveland's neighbor on the other side. While claiming no advancement as incorporated places, Clermont has constantly grown as a summer resort and all-the-year-round place to live. The number of new houses built there in recent times far exceeds the average pace. The new municipal pier this summer proved an attraction of more than the ordinary sense. Clermont now has a new and separate school and building of its own, provided for by the county, and the latest is to the effect that leading citizens there are banding themselves for better streets, drainage, etc. They are going through the preliminaries of applying to the PWA or other governmental organization for that financial assistance that will make it possible to have permanently surfaced streets, culverts, etc. Such enterprise is to be commended and encouraged.

MUNICIPALITIES WILL HAVE TO PAY BACK.

ANY idea that municipalities securing loans from the Public Works Administration will not be forced to repay them is dissipated by the action of Secretary Ickes in removing from office the Public Works Engineer in Tennessee. This official, in a circular letter, expressed the belief that municipalities "will not be expected to carry out their obligations and repay" the loans.

Immediately upon becoming acquainted with this action, the Secretary, in a sharply worded telegram, terminated the services of the state official. Mr. Ickes insists that the loans are made on legal security, taken because repayment is expected, and that while thirty per cent of the cost of labor and materials are given in grants, the balance of the amount advanced is a loan, to be repaid.

It will thus be seen that money borrowed from the government by towns and cities must be paid back, to the very last cent due, contrary to local and other speculations.

THE PAN-AMERICAN HIGHWAY.

THE United States, at the conference in Montevideo, will offer to survey the route of an international highway from the border of Texas to Santiago, Chile, without cost to other nations. Back of it is the hope that some day there will be an improved road connecting the peoples of the nations and permitting greater facilities in travel and commerce. There is no reason why such a highway should not be constructed and many advantages that would accrue to all concerned.

In years past American capital has been freely extended to develop South and Central American projects which had no direct bearing upon this country. It might be more profitably used to construct a highway that, at least, would tend to promote understanding between the two Americas and might serve as an avenue of trade expansion.

The highway would be approximately 8,500 miles in length and cost only a fraction of the money foolishly lost in foreign loans. So far as we know no insuperable barriers would prevent its use in spreading American business interests. Possibly there would be considerable trucking as well as passenger travel.

PROHIBITION AND TAXES.

PROHIBITION repeal means the end of a number of so-called "nuisance" taxes. These are: the 5 per cent tax paid by stockholders on dividends received; the one-tenth of one per cent tax paid by corporations on declared value of capital stock; the 5 per cent tax paid by corporations on income in excess of 12 1-2 per cent of declared value of capital stock. The 1 1-2 cent federal gas tax will be reduced to 1 cent. It's likely that other taxes, such as that on bank checks, will go.

Both the Federal Government and the states are looking forward to liquor as the provider of tremendous sums of new revenue, are planning what to do with it. Principal danger is that there will be too many fingers in the flowing bowl, forcing the price of legal stuff to where the bootleggers will stay in business and undersell.

Repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment seems assured, and the papers give some space to the fashions in whiskey glasses that are likely to prevail. There is still considerable legislation to be done on the liquor question, and the drys, although temporarily in the background, may figure out some sort of legislation Tantalus cup before all is finished, it being recalled that Tantalus, although provided with a cup, had one of such construction that although it could be filled, emptied itself before it reached the drinker's lips.

O. S. T. NOT ADVERTISED.

HAROLD AYRES, who lives at San Antonio, Texas, the father of the Old Spanish Trail, he who blazed the way between San Augustine and San Diego, California, passed through Bay St. Louis last week en route to visit his mother in New Jersey. Mr. Ayres in former years frequently visited Bay St. Louis and other Coast communities, appearing before boards of supervisors and other organized authorities in the interest of highway and bridge building. The task was Herculean; it well nigh seemed impossible. Carping critics said it could not be done. Today it is an accomplished fact. Great bodies of water that intervene have been spanned with steel and concrete and the Old Spanish Trail winds its way for thousands of miles through marsh, highland and mountain sides. It is a remarkable accomplishment.

Director General Ayres told a group of civic workers at Gulfport it was a pity the Old Spanish Trail was not advertised. Thousands of tourists every season passed up the Gulf Coast and detour by other routes further north. He said we should be capitalizing now on the millions of dollars of public money that tax-payers have poured into this great undertaking. Our people do not realize the importance of the finished project. They too often think of it in the sense of a local roadway or as if it were simply an arterial roadway.

The idea is correct. The O. S. T. is not advertised. This Coast with its alluring charms and many attractions is like the rose blooming in the open spaces, unknown and unseen and shedding its fragrance on the desert air. It is a pity we are allowing our investment, which should be paying dividends, to lie dormant.

REAL ESTATE AT THE BOTTOM.

IN ONE of its recent releases, the always-cautious Standard Statistics Company, which makes a business of fact-finding uninfluenced by opinion or prejudice, reports that real estate values are extremely deflated, that building costs are rising, and that the time is highly opportune for construction as an investment.

It's difficult to see how, under any imaginable circumstances, real estate values could sink lower. They've touched the absolute bottom—now they're moving up. And construction, under the spur of recovery plans, is moving out of the doldrums that kept the industry at a standstill for three years, and is reaching sounder levels.

Bankrupt prices aren't going to be offered so much longer. In the near future, we're going to pay twenty or fifty or a hundred per cent more to build and repair than we would have to pay now. We're going to pay more for land, lumber, roofing materials, cement, heating equipment—everything needed for home building.

Yes, it's really the time to build. Opportunity is knocking now more loudly than it ever knocked before—and thousands of people with money to spend are taking advantage of it. As for those other thousands who have the money but prefer to "wait and see," well, they might meditate on the fact that by the time they do find out that things are really changing, it will probably be too late to do anything about it.

A GOOD RESOLUTION FOR 1934.

IT'S a little early yet for New Year's resolutions, but here's one worth considering—"I'll do my part to reduce fire waste in 1934."

If a hundred million Americans did resolve that, and didn't drop it along about the second week of January with the resolution concerning smoking, the nation would have a splendid start toward winning a difficult and ancient fight. We have long been the most prodigal of people when it comes to fire. We've sacrificed thousands of lives and millions of dollars to it—precisely as the peoples of the pre-Christian era sacrificed their victims to the god of flame. In those days the reason was superstition—in ours it is a combination of ignorance and laziness. And one is as reprehensible as the other.

Fires mean high tax rates. They mean destroyed jobs and opportunities. They mean bankruptcy and privation and want. They mean terror and misery and disaster. They mean stultification and despair. They've ruined whole communities. Their total economic waste can't be expressed accurately in figures—the direct loss comes to between four hundred and five hundred million a year, and the indirect waste is several times as great.

Conquering fire in 1934 would give recovery a mighty impetus. It would save jobs and payrolls and homes and farms and producing industries. It would keep money at work that would otherwise be destroyed and made useless. Make that resolution!

SAFE WALKING.

THE Travelers Insurance Company has issued an interesting report on the hazards faced by pedestrians on streets and highways, that deserves wide notice.

Many of the facts produced are certainly obvious to anyone who bothers to think about "safe walking" at all—but if the statistics mean anything, those who have thought about it are rare. It's obvious that the safest place for the pedestrian to cross a street is at an intersection with the signal—yet thousands of people were killed last year because they crossed against the signal, or went diagonally from corner to corner, or crossed in the middle of the block. According to the Travelers, crossing in the middle of the block has 156 per cent more chance of resulting in death to the offender than in crossing properly.

Darkness adds greatly to pedestrian hazards, especially along highways where cars are moving at high speeds, when it is often impossible to see persons dressed in dark clothing until it's too late to stop and avoid them. The influence of the seasons is likewise important. In the first and last quarters of the year the rate of pedestrian deaths is 25 per cent greater than in the second and third quarters.

Safe walking is something the country needs to learn. Last year the pedestrian death toll came to 13,500—a ghastly achievement for carelessness and ignorance.

THE FARMER AGAIN

WE have not been reading so much about the NRA lately, other phases of the New Deal taking up more space in the papers. The administration is trying to satisfy the farmers. Inasmuch as nobody has ever satisfied the American farmer yet, this is a task demanding much attention, radical measures and a first-class miracle. The farmer is trying unsuccessfully to meet a condition of unbalanced production and consumption, and is demanding vigorously that the government rectify the condition at once. Moreover he insists that this be done by farm relief measures which must also leave him perfectly free to manage his own business in his own way. The aims of the farm strikers look quite reasonable, but it puzzles an economist to know how the government is going to adjust supply to demand without an exercise of authority that would be regarded as intolerable tyranny, and that would be harder to enforce than the Volstead law and the prohibition amendment.

The farmer wants "cost of production" for his crops. That seems fair enough, if only anybody knew how much "cost of production" is. The figure varies enormously, as it costs some farmers twice as much to raise a crop as it costs others. Also the farmer keeps on growing more crops than his customers are able to buy, and sells them for anything he can get. Under these circumstances, it is difficult to see why anybody should pay more than the market price for his products, or how the government can make anybody pay more than necessary. Spilling milk on the road, burning grain, killing stock and that sort of thing ought to help raise prices, but these are not altogether satisfactory, especially since the extra profit will not all reach the farmer. Nobody has ever yet succeeded in controlling harvests, except in war by simply destroying everything.

The government is collecting fairly heavy sales taxes to raise money to hire the farmers to plant less crops, or to plow up crops already planted. As this scheme raises the price to consumers, a smaller quantity is bought, leaving an unsold surplus, which tends to lower prices again. The government is also buying up pigs to feed the unemployed, and the meat so distributed comes into competition, to a certain extent, with that sold through other channels, so tending to lower prices. Moreover it is reported that the many farmers planted extra acreage, so that they would have something to plow up without decreasing their production. The cotton crop is very large, in spite of the reduction.

Incidentally, on a very large acreage indeed tractors have replaced horses and mules, and the motor car and truck have replaced the old fashioned farm buggy and wagon, with their needed horses. This means an enormously lessened demand for oats, hay and other feed. The farmer himself has decreased his own demand for farm products, and not in any small degree. Automobile, gas and oil companies have received hundreds of millions of dollars that would otherwise have gone in large part to farmers. That is one of the results of progress, the road to which "lies over the bodies of the weak and the inefficient." A recent paper explains how Mr. Sinclair of the Sinclair Oil Co., gave $300,000 to another gentleman, but not to any farmer.

The latest scheme is to lower the value of the dollar so that the farmer can get more money for what he sells. This idea is passionately believed in by the farmer, has been for at least sixty years. The demand for cheap money was one of the causes of the American Revolution, although it is not often mentioned. It ought to work on one condition—that the farmer's customers get more of the cheaper dollars. Otherwise the buyers will have no choice except to pay the same prices, or else to buy smaller quantities. The man who is out of a job will have no more of the cheaper money than he has of the dearer. The man who gets ten dollars a week will still get ten dollars a week, unless the very unexpected happens, and he will have no more dollars to spend for wheat, meat, cotton, and tobacco. Lucky speculators will probably make fantastic fortunes, as they usually do during periods of inflation; but people with incomes of a million a year each are not important customers for farmers, because there are not enough of them, even including their families and household dependents.

The farm problem is to sell an overabundance of produce at higher prices. It is probably a very pertinent fact in this connection that at least a third of the farmers' customers are broke, and half of the rest are badly broke financially. One city boasted that it was feeding its destitute at a cost of only one cent a day each. That is not enough money to help the farmer materially. It may prove that the NRA, if it can be enforced, will do more to restore a balance between consumption and production than any of the schemes which try to apply a remedy at the other end of the market. It is a fact, as well as a theory, that farm prices go up and down with industrial payrolls. It is a fair guess that if the farmers had enough customers, and those customers had enough money, there would be no great farm problem.

WITH THE MOVIES AND FILM FOLKS

JAN KIEPURA, star of "Be Mine Tonight," is expected to begin work on four pictures for Universal.

Reginald Denny, former film performer, is co-producing his own story "The Big Bluff." In the height of his career he wrote many of his best stories.

Katherine Cornell denies that she will have the lead in the film version of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which MGM will produce.

Elissa Landi will co-star with Frances Lederer in "Man of Two Worlds."

"Meclasse" will be made by RKO-Radio, with Diana Wynyard and Adolphe Menjou in the leads.

George Arliss will soon begin "The House of Rothschild" for Twentieth Century Pictures. Loretta Young will have the feminine lead.

Barbara Stanwyck is about to begin work on "Blood of China." Fox plans several specials, featuring all of the studio's stars. "The House of Connally," is now in production. "Fox Follies" and "The World Moves On" are to follow under the direction of Winfield Sheehan.

Helen Hayes will probably have the lead in "What Every Woman Knows," the Barrie play purchased by MGM.

Dorothy Dick's "Cradle Song," the film version of Martinez Sierra's play has been completed and is now being shown.

Will Rogers will have the role in "David Harum" which will be produced by Fox.

Columbia's musical picture, "Let's Fall in Love," is the story of a checkroom girl who becomes a star. Harriette Lake, Edmund Lowe, Miriam Jordan and Tala Birell are in the cast.

Warner's "As the Earth Turns," requires two sets, duplicating the Maine farm where the story revolves. One set is for spring and summer scenes and the other for fall and winter scenes.

Fox plans to produce eight features in Paris, six in London and six in Berlin. In the Paris program is a comedy-mystery with Henry Grant, Lili Damita and Lillian Harvey's "Music in the Air," which will be made in English, French and German.

Frederick March, Miriam Hopkins and George Raft appear in "All of Me" now in production at Paramount.

Grace Moore, operatic soprano, will make a picture for Columbia. "Alice in Wonderland" is underway at the Paramount studio, with Charlotte Henry and a lusty cast. Also in production is "The Search for Beauty," featuring thirty winners of beauty contests.

John Miljan, who has leered at most of Hollywood's heroines, has died a villain's death in many ways and in his entire screen career has never won a girl.

WHERE DO YOU STAND?

(Slidell (La.) News)

IN MANY communities will be found two type of citizens—one the one hand a type of citizen who is progressive and industrious, filled with a high sense of civic pride, who believes in his town and himself, who is ever ready to aid any progressive move that will tend to make his home town a better town, always ready to defend and praise his home town, this type of citizen is a asset to a community and is a very desirable citizen.

On the other hand there is a type of citizen who is ever ready to oppose any progressive move, who can see no future for the town, ready to brand every citizen who attempts to do something for the community, as self-seeking, grasping or grafting, he continually finds fault with the town, the way it is run, its people and things in general—this type of citizen is a detriment to any community and is an undesirable parasite and any community should welcome his departure.

Cities, like humans, are accorded the respect that they have for themselves, nothing more, or nothing less. If a man commands the respect of his fellow man he will be respected, if he demands no self respect he is looked upon as of no consequence, and will drift into oblivion, so it is with your home town, if it is alert to its opportunities and is defended by citizens it will have the respect of other cities and other peoples and retain its rightful place of importance and dignity.

TOUGH ON GOVERNOR CONNER.

(Times-Picayune)

SUPPOSING the governor of Louisiana and the governor of Mississippi got together and started discussing football? We know what we'd do if we were in Governor Conner's place. We'd pick up that old-time gag tre governor of North Carolina once pulled and say it was a long time between drinks.

But governors these days are waiting for everything to be set before they start ordering another round of drinks. Governor Conner can point to such men as Nollie Felts, Dick Hardy, "Wop" Glover, Johnny Read and many others who have starred at on Tulane teams and to many more on Loyola, L. S. U. and Centenary teams that Mississippi has given to Louisiana.

But just the same Governor Allen could chuckle as they talked over this season's success.

Loyola trimmed Mississippi college, Tulane walloped Mississippi State, L. S. U. took an awful fall out of Ole Miss and promises to do the same thing to Mississippi State while Centenary says Ole Miss must take it on the chin next Saturday.

Thus all four of Louisiana's teams will have downed the Mississippians and L. S. U., Governor Allen's pet team, will have hauled down the sails of two teams from Governor Conner's state.

So if Governor Allen said to Governor Conner:

"What do you think of the football situation?" Governor Conner probably would say:

"I think the short-cut highway to the Gulf Coast should be completed without delay."

COUNTY PHYSICIAN GIVES VALUABLE AND TIMELY HINTS

Pneumonia And Influenza
Often Develop and Prove Fatal.

"Avoid a cold and possibly you escape pneumonia or influenza either of which may prove fatal." This is the advice of a competent medical authority of Hancock county, who for ethical reasons does not care to be quoted directly. He knows that deaths from pneumonia and influenza are increasing at this time of the year and hopes that the people of Hancock county will not neglect the so-called "common cold."

The changing weather makes it easy for individuals to take colds and the carelessness of those who do not realize that the cold is highly infectious causes this dangerous health menace to spread through a community.

However, every individual can do much to maintain a physical condition that will protect against colds. A well-known health official of a neighboring state has given out ten suggestions for persons to follow if they would minimize the risks that a cold entails:

Keep your mouth shut; breathe through your nose.

Keep far away from persons who have colds.

Keep good hours; sleep eight or ten every night.

Keep clean; take a bath every day.

Keep comfortable; dress according to the weather.

Keep fit through the balanced diet; include leafy vegetables, fruits and a salad; drink a quart of milk every day.

Keep the house well aired; windows in every room should be opened for a time each day, and all night in sleeping chambers.

Keep the body exercised; walking in the open is the best form of exercise. Walk brisk, your head erect, swing arms and breathe through your nose.

Keep away from patent medicines and nostrums; if you have a cold get to bed promptly and call the family doctor at once.

Keep the house and your office at a temperature of between 68 and 70 degrees.

TO PAY CHRISTMAS MONEY.

Within the next two weeks, banks and other organizations sponsoring Christmas clubs will pay approximately $350,000,000 to more than 8,000,000 members throughout the country.

One Touch of Kindness.

"WALLS OF GOLD" AT LOCAL THEATER SUNDAY AND MON.

Leading Roles in New Fox
Film Have Sally Eilers
And Norman Foster

Sally Eilers, with Norman Foster cast in the leading masculine role opposite her, comes to the A. & G. Theater, this Sunday and Monday, in "Walls of Gold," the new Fox Film production, taken from Kathleen Norris' best selling novel of the same name. It is scheduled for an engagement of two days.

The action of the picture moves from the smart speakasies and their flip repartee to the calmer quiet of country beauty, and back again to luxurious Long Island homes and Europe's watering places. There is an accompanying social whirl and free living that tangles the hearts of the principles.

In "Walls of Gold," Kathleen Norris shifts her pen to the problem that has troubled so many of our modern maidens—whether to accept love unquestioningly, or to take the matrimonial offer of the highest bidder.

The young girl in the story is faced with such a question. In a moment of weakness she succumbs to the offer of a millionaire, and so angers the man who loves her, that in resentment, he marries her younger sister. Heartbroken over the young man's impetuous marriage, she weds the millionaire, only to find that ease and luxury do not in themselves spell happiness. It is then that she realizes she has shut herself off with walls of gold from a romance she has always desired.

To our many friends and passengers of Bay St. Louis....

WE regret to announce that effective immediately, buses of the Teche Greyhound Lines will no longer travel through the business and residential sections of Bay St. Louis, in compliance with an ordinance passed by the City Commission.

While this company has advertised Bay St. Louis and the famous Gulf Coast route throughout the United States at great expense, bringing thousands of visitors and business men through your city, these people must now be kept on the Old Spanish Trail, missing the most attractive part of the Gulf Coast.

This great inconvenience to the citizens of Bay St. Louis and to its thousands of friends brought here by bus every year is due to reasons beyond our control and which we deeply regret.

We sincerely hope to again operate our new buses, the last word in comfort and safety—all buses are now equipped with Westinghouse air brakes—through Bay St. Louis proper and on the famous sea wall. . . America's Riviera. Your part in assisting the citizens of Bay St. Louis in obtaining convenient, adequate and inexpensive transportation is deeply appreciated.

Scafile Crop Best And Largest Yet Known For Many Seasons

While a few of the pecan trees here have not produced as much and as well as in other years and in keeping with the bulk of the crop, the many trees of the well-known A. Scafile Pecan Orchard, on Old Spanish Trail, outside of the city, has a banner yield this year. The trees are loaded with the largest and finest pecans and the demand for this choice kind of pecans is naturally active.

Mrs. Scafile and family, who take care of the orchard all the year round with the utmost solicitude, particularly since Mr. Scafile's passing away, are rewarded for their effort.

The pecans are sold either bulk, retail, in shell or shelled. With the approach of Christmas the demand will increase. A supply will either be delivered locally or shipped. Or, sold at premises in any quantity desired.

HOME COMING OF BRIDAL COUPLE CELEBRATED WITH CHARM AND BEAUTY.

On the occasion of return from their bridal trip, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Grace, recently married at New Orleans, were the recipients of a homecoming celebration, Saturday evening at the Waveland Beach Hotel, of the groom's father, Mr. John D. Grace, and his accomplished daughter, Miss Virginia Grace.

The occasion was an extremely happy one and the spirit of the party was in keeping with the ideals and prescribed conventions of such an evening and its happy significance. Mr. Grace was recently married at New Orleans to Miss Dorothea Wuerpel, of the same city, and the wedding was followed by an extensive trip to various parts of the country by motor.

The return was eagerly anticipated and in keeping with the spirit of so pleasant an occasion Mr. Grace had invited a few friends of the family to an evening at the family Waveland home. The affair, to be genuinely enjoyable, was thoroughly informal, with a musical program running through the festivities of the evening. This program was announced by Mr. Marshall Ballard, master of ceremonies, and each number was given at well-timed intervals. Mr. Ballard easily proved himself a master of the part assigned and how well he distinguished himself and succeeded is best evidenced by the culmination of the evening—one never to be forgotten.

A feature, at mid-night, was the presentation of the old Virginia reel, led by Mr. Thomas S. Johnson and Mr. Marshall Ballard, danced strictly in accordance with the old traditional style.

PROGRAM

The opening numbers were composed of several choice musical selections, sung by the Misses Ballard, Mr. M. Ballard and sons, with Mrs. M. Ballard at the piano.

Mrs. T. A. Maxwell, sang the "Last Rose of Summer," accompanying herself on the piano, with Miss Virginia Grace, rendering the obligato on the 'cello.

Miss Edith Ballard sang, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Charms," with Mrs. M. Ballard at the piano. Sang also, "Mother Machree," with Mrs. M. Ballard at the piano.

Mr. John D. Grace, gave a recitation of Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms, accompanying himself with harp sounds on the guitar, as a compliment to one of the young ladies present. Mr. Grace also, sang, by request, "Old Rosin the Bow," accompanying himself on the guitar.

Mr. Charles G. Moreau sang two selections, with Miss Virginia Grace at the piano and Miss Virginia Grace rendering an obligato on the 'cello. Miss Virginia Grace rendered Schubert's Ave Maria on the 'cello, with Mrs. Thomas Maxwell at the piano.

Miss Caroline Ballard recited He is So Unusual, with Mr. Daniel Grace.

Mr. Samuel Ballard rendered two Spanish selections, accompanying himself on the guitar.

Mr. Marshall Ballard, Jr., sang a German selection, with Dr. Moseley at the piano and joined in other songs.

Miss Vivian Grace Maxmell recited Santa Claus' Fright and also Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Thos. S. Johnson sang the Rosary with Miss Virginia Grace at the piano and also sang Holy! Holy! with Mrs. Ballard at the piano.

Included in the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Ballard, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. G. Moreau, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Johnson, Prof. and Mrs. J. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. J. McLoughlin, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Maxwell, Mrs. Henry B. Cooley, Mrs. Maude Beattie.

WORK AND PLAY AT S. J. A.

AS TOLD BY THE RINGMASTER AT THE CIRCUS!

STEP right up, folks, only ten cents and you are entitled to a privately conducted tour around the gym that has been turned into a burlesque circus. On our left, we have the menagerie in which almost any wild animal may be seen, monkeys, pelicans, rabbits, squirrels, oh, numerous ferocious beasts. Don't be afraid to go near the cage, folks, they can't get out (although two monkeys did escape). Continuing down the left side we next have, oh! I'll let your sense of smell guide you. Can't you detect the aroma of hot coffee and sandwiches? Go to it, ladies and gentlemen, while you're munching on that hot dog, why not try your luck on the race horses? That's it, son, just place your nickel on the board and trust to luck. What a lucky horse? Good for you. Well, let's move on.

How about a saunter down "The Streets of Paris?" I'll wait out here for you. What! Back already? How did you like it? Fine, eh! How about trying your luck at the country store? My! my! Do my eyes deceive me or do I see two bowls of luscious red punch? Look at the cakes! Why, they look like the kind mother used to make. Fall right in line, folks, we are only half way around you know and this is the last stop for substantial eats.

Why, there's my old friend, the gypsy! Anybody want his fortune told? The gypsy has had communications with the oracles and is ready to solve the mysteries of the future. Now if you want the thrill of your life, why just visit the Krazy House. If you are disappointed your entertainment fee will be refunded.

Well, that's over. Maybe some of you good folks with a sweet tooth would like a bit of delicious homemade candy. If so, here's the candy booth. Doesn't it look inviting?

And now, ladies and gentlemen, I wish you would give me your attention for just a moment. Do you see that spot in the corner of the gym that is marked off with a tarpaulin? Well, folks, behind that is the fiercest gorilla you ever saw. Now, now, ladies, don't be alarmed. His keeper has complete control over him. But that's not all. There is also a giant elephant behind that curtain. Watch that elephant sway to the rhythm of the band. All right, you sit right down and make yourselves comfortable. The main act will begin in about five minutes. I see a party at the door that I have to escort around the gym so I'll have to leave you. S'long hope you will enjoy the performance."
